DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY IN ORGANIZATIONAL LEADERSHIP

Northcentral University's Doctor of Philosophy in Organizational Leadership (PhD-OL) curriculum is a challenging, yet fulfilling, in-depth study of leadership with broad application across industries. The PhD-OL program allows you to examine leadership in a multitude of dimensions. Upon completion of the program, you will have gained the knowledge to evaluate major theories and contribute to the body of knowledge in the field of organizational leadership. No other university can match NCU's uniquely flexible approach to earning this doctoral degree online, which includes weekly course starts to fit your schedule. This online PhD-OL program has no entrance exam requirements, which can be time-consuming and costly.

WHAT YOU'LL LEARN

NCU's Doctor of Philosophy in Organizational Leadership degree program takes you deeper in your understanding of organizational dynamics and explores leadership from a strategic perspective. Throughout this program you will gain opportunities to glean understanding from the real-world experience of your mentoring professors. With your PhD-OL, you'll have been challenged and equipped to create or lead an organization whose hallmarks are ethical values, anticipation of future events, calculated risk-taking and leadership.

WHO WILL TEACH YOU

Every course in NCU's PhD-OL program is taught one-to-one through mentoring by our professors who have earned their doctorate in business or a related field. Your first course will be taught by a professor who has been specifically trained to familiarize you with the NCU education experience so you can be successful. As you progress through the program and take more specialized courses, your professors will likewise exhibit expertise in each topic.

ABOUT NORTHCENTRAL UNIVERSITY

In today's competitive global marketplace, business professionals are constantly called upon to prove they have the ability to help their organization run more efficiently and effectively no matter their field or area of expertise. Northcentral University's School of Business and Technology Management has adopted a similar results-oriented approach to online education, delivering challenging doctoral, master's, bachelor's and graduate certificate programs to help you develop the business acumen that companies, investors and clients demand.

THE NCU DIFFERENCE

UNPARALLELED FLEXIBILITY

No other university can match NCU's uniquely flexible approach to earning a graduate degree online, which includes weekly course starts to fit your schedule. Our 100% online programs allow you to pursue your degree on your time. At NCU, there are no residency requirements, no need to travel to a physical campus and no entrance exams.

PREMIER EDUCATION

NCU is committed to providing a premier education for our students, and holds the same regional accreditation (WASC) as other prestigious American universities. You will learn from our professors, all of whom hold doctoral degrees, and are experienced professionals in your field of study. Our one-to-one mentoring approach to learning allows you to experience individualized interaction. NCU offers excellent university resources to support your success now and in the future, including an outstanding online library available 24/7, managed by trained, full-time librarians.

TAILORED TO YOU

At NCU you'll be learning in a class size of one, so there's no need to worry about dropped classes or waiting lists. There are no group classes or projects to interfere with your calendar. You determine your schedule, just as you determine your educational outcome. That's why NCU's independent study approach is designed for you, the self-motivated student, who seeks a higher degree in their educational journey.
